

Someone Will Remember Us, She Said

Neo Kenny

'Someone will remember us,
Even in another time,'
Sappho once said.

Someone will remember us,
Say the men in prison for their love.

Someone will remember us,
Say the women who started a movement.

Someone will remember us,
Say the folk between genders,
Forced to choose.

Someone will remember us,
Say the matelots of piracy,
Their union recognised but scorned.

Someone will remember us,
Say the children, their identities hidden.

Someone will remember us,
Say all those in closets.

Someone will remember us,
We all cry, hoping that our legacies will live on, our stories remembered.
Our lives not for naught.

Someone will remember us,
Even in another time.
Sappho once said.
